

Reuben College Official Fellowships in Values & Society Further Particulars

Reuben College seeks to recruit to a number of Official (Governing Body) Fellowship in its growing Values & Society theme.

Founded as an interdisciplinary College in 2019, Reuben first opened its doors to graduates in 2021. It has since accepted students from Philosophy, History, Theology and Art, for DPhil, MPhil and Masters study. As it looks to reach its steady-state numbers (of 650 on-course postgraduates) in the next few years, the College is keen to expand the range of Humanities disciplines for which it accepts, and at the same time to increase the numbers and breadth of the Fellowship within its 'Values & Society' theme. For this reason all eligible Faculty members within the Humanities division are welcome to apply for these Fellowships now advertised, supporting the College's final stages of expansion, regardless whether their discipline is as yet already represented at the College.

To be eligible, applicants must be currently employed by the Humanities Division on a research, teaching & research, or language teaching post at Grade 7 or above.

Successful candidates will be elected to a Fellowship on a five-year renewable basis, with a mid-term review, and with renewal dependent on satisfactory performance in college duties. However, a Fellowship at the College does not itself constitute employment and does not confer any rights to employment with the University.

As a Fellow of Reuben College, the postholder will have a role to play in the governance of the College through their membership of Governing Body and its subsidiary committees, and in the support of its graduate students and diverse interdisciplinary activities.

Official Fellows receive College membership and benefits including an annual allowance (of currently £3,000 per annum).

To apply, please send a (maximum) 10-page CV and covering letter to the President's Executive Assistant (president-pa@reuben.ox.ac.uk) by noon on 5th January 2026.

This CV, attached as a pdf, should include your publications list, and a supporting statement (a) specifying your relevant skills and experience; and (b) describing how you would be able to contribute to the college.

It is anticipated that interviews for shortlisted candidates will take place on 22nd January 2026.

I Reuben College

I.I The vision

There are 39 self-governing and independent colleges at Oxford, giving both academic staff and students the benefits of belonging to a small, interdisciplinary community as well as to a large, internationally renowned institution. The collegiate system fosters a strong sense of community, bringing together leading academics and students across subjects, and from different cultures and countries.

The founding of Reuben College in 2019, supported by a generous benefaction from the Reuben Foundation of £71 million (including £15 million for graduate scholarships), has offered an exciting opportunity to bring together researchers and postgraduate students focused on exploring some of the most important questions of the 21st century. Reuben College provides an environment that stimulates and facilitates interdisciplinary research, while emphasising the qualities of innovation, leadership and entrepreneurship. It supports a community of Fellows and graduates who embrace opportunities to interact with researchers beyond the boundaries of their own disciplines and to engage with colleagues beyond the realm of academia.

I.II Strategic and Academic Themes

Reuben College is committed to maintaining an inclusive and internationally excellent research environment; it expects its Fellows to be active in research and to contribute to a high-quality learning experience for its student body. In selecting Fellows, the Selection Committees will have regard for promoting a diversity of perspectives and approaches, with College Fellows together fostering a culture of interdisciplinary exchange for Reuben students through regular college events, such as seminars, talks and workshops.

To promote the ethos and practice of interdisciplinary interaction, there has been an initial focus on four research clusters, whose themes were chosen for their wide reach across the University, their strongly interdisciplinary nature, Oxford's existing and potential strengths in these areas, and their innovation and entrepreneurship potential. The initial clusters focus on the topics of (a) Values & Society, (b) Environmental Change, (c) Artificial Intelligence & Machine Learning, and (d) Cellular Life. These clusters have natural synergies, enabling cross-cutting discussions and research collaborations to emerge. Each of the four areas is interpreted as broadly as possible, as the College is keen to attract researchers from all four of the University's Academic Divisions. The four themes are complemented by a number of strategic stands, notably in Innovation and Entrepreneurship and in Public Engagement in Research, Culture & Heritage.

I.III Values & Society

The Values & Society theme aims to address fundamental questions about our social and cultural world: How should we live? How can we foster just and equal societies? How do values shape the kinds of knowledge we produce?

In our theme, we use tools from a range of disciplines across the arts, humanities and social sciences to investigate questions like these to gain a richer understanding of the world we inhabit. We aim to explore the values that have shaped our societies across time and place, and examine the societal consequences of new ideas, technologies, and cultural shifts.

We celebrate the value of this sort of scholarship for its own sake. At the same time, we also believe that arts, humanities and social science perspectives can play a crucial role in contributing alongside other disciplines to the development of solutions to the most challenging questions of our time. Whether looking at how to mitigate climate change, or assessing how to use AI fairly and safely, complex issues require both technical expertise and a deep understanding of human values, cultural contexts, and social dynamics.

More broadly, we believe we should use insights from the arts, humanities and social sciences to encourage and facilitate critical thinking about the research we conduct, how we conduct it, and its goals.

Among some of the academic enrichment opportunities we offer to Reuben College are:

- Joint seminars and events on the cultural ethics of museums, art and design (delivered through our strong links with GLAM)
- Oxford-style public debates on challenging issues
- Public engagement events (e.g. film screenings) on cutting edge ethical and societal issues to generate and provoke joint reflection and discussion
- Skills workshops on ethical reasoning and argumentation, and on what to consider when applying for research ethics approvals
- Joint seminars with Reuben Fellows in fields such as climate change, artificial intelligence (AI), and biomedicine

II Official Fellowships

II. I College Duties

As a Fellow of Reuben College the postholder will have a role to play in the governance of the College as a member of its Governing Body and subsidiary committees, and in the support of its graduate students and diverse interdisciplinary activities, as outlined below.

- To act as adviser to a number of Reuben College graduate students
- To organize and lead occasional College seminars, workshops and lectures, as appropriate.
- To be involved in the recruitment and mentoring of the College's Research Fellows (post-docs).
- To regularly attend academic and social events organised by the College or other Fellows.
- To be an active and engaged member of its Governing Body, expected to attend the majority of scheduled meetings.
- To play a full role in the life and administration of the College. This will involve, from time to time:
  - Holding office within the College;
  - Sitting on, or chairing, College Committees;
  - Taking part in public engagement projects and events, development, access and outreach work, and/or other activities which help to sustain a thriving college community

Fellows may not hold a Governing Body Fellowship at any other college concurrently with their Fellowship at the College. However, since the College is at present a Society of the University, it does not hold charitable status in its own right, and so Reuben College Fellows are not charitable trustees of the College

II.II College Benefits, Terms and Conditions

Successful candidates will be elected to a Fellowship on a five-year renewable basis, with a mid-term review, and with renewal dependent on satisfactory performance in college duties.

However, a Fellowship at the College does not itself constitute employment and does not confer any rights to employment with the University. Fellows are required to inform the President and Senior Tutor of the College if they are given notice under their University contract of employment: any Fellowship will expire automatically on the same dates as the expiry of a contract of employment with the University.

Official Fellows will receive the following benefits:

- An annual allowance (of currently £3,000 per annum). This can be paid either directly (for non-Tier 2 postholders only, and thus will be taxable), or as a research allowance (to support, for example, conferences, events, or research costs).
- Subsidised dining and luncheon rights (in accordance with the facilities available at the time).
- The right to bring guests to college meals, subject to capacity, and at their own costs.
- Membership of the Common Room.

Benefits will continue as normal during any period of family leave, or sickness absence but will be suspended for the period of any research leave, other paid leave (excepting the above), or unpaid leave of 12 months or more, taken by an Official Fellow, during which time they choose not to fulfil their college duties. All decisions in these regards will be taken by the President in consultation with the Senior Tutor, with a view to promoting fairness and consistency of treatment amongst the Fellows.

As an Official Fellow, the postholder will be a member of the College's Governing Body and is required to hold the Fellowship under the terms of the College Statutes and By-laws in force. All Fellows are thus bound by the relevant policies and procedures of the College as published on the College's website and in internal directories

III. Applications

III. I Eligibility

This is not an employment position and to be eligible applicants must be currently employed by the Humanities Division on a research, teaching & research, or language teaching post at Grade 7 or above. Tier 2 postholders are welcome to apply - this is not an employment position and should not necessitate a new visa application. (This also means that the College would not be able to act as sponsor for any visa renewal.)

Candidates with University contracts of less than five years are welcome to apply, with College election then coterminous with that shorter contract. The Selection Committee will however have regard for continuity in the college fellowship, and particular for provision for its graduate students.

Those who already have a Governing Body Fellowship with another college or society will not be eligible.

If you have any questions about your eligibility, please contact the College's Senior Tutor (senior.tutor@reuben.ox.ac.uk).

III.II Person specification & Selection Criteria

Applicants will be assessed on their eligibility, their ability to perform those duties specified above, and the College's need for intellectual diversity and excellence within the advertised themes.

Candidates are thus encouraged in their applications to include evidence of the following:

- research and/or teaching interests which complement the theme and the College's support for interdisciplinarity;
- for those applying from research posts, a track record in independent research;
- commitment to the vision, approach and values of Reuben College and to ensuring the College provides a positive, supportive and inclusive environment for all;
- enthusiasm for working with colleagues from other Departments and Divisions, including the Gardens, Libraries and Museums, as well as researchers from centres of excellence outside the University, in the setting up and delivery of interdisciplinary activities within the college (for example seminar series, talks and workshops);
- willingness and capacity to act as the college adviser for Reuben College graduate students;
- ability to work effectively as part of a small, collaborative team, to influence and to build consensus;
- strong communication skills, both written and oral;
- ability to build relationships at all levels, to network effectively and to inspire confidence in students and colleagues;
- as appropriate, a commitment to outreach, knowledge exchange, public engagement, and/or promoting innovation.

III.III Equality, Diversity & Inclusiveness

As a new college, we are building a community of people and practice that has diversity at the heart, for students and staff, for our academic and applied endeavours. This gives all our members both the opportunity and the shared responsibility to shape the culture and ethos of our community.

Through every one of its events, committees, procedures and practices, the growing community of Reuben College aims to create an environment in which everyone can take advantage of the unique opportunities that living, working and studying in Oxford can bring, whatever their background. We hope that, as our community grows, all members continue to work towards ensuring equity of opportunity for each individual, without exception. This commitment to equality and diversity goes hand in hand with our commitment to academic freedom and free speech.

III.IV How to apply

To apply, please send a (maximum) 10-page CV and covering letter to the President's Executive Assistant (president-pa@reuben.ox.ac.uk) by noon on 5th January 2026.
